FOREWORD

One hundred and three classes have been graduated from Classical (formerly Central) High School, and since 1955 is the year of the general class reunions it seems to present an appropriate occasion on which to note achievements of the alumni. The division pages of the Blue and White aim to emphasize alumni who are outstanding in their chosen fields. These men and women represent only an infinitesimal part of the accomplishments of Classical graduates.

The granite steps leading up to the arched entrance of Classical High School are somewhat hollowed (and hallowed) by the tread of one hundred and three classes but as Dr. Chatto observes:

“And still the long, long march goes on,
Today’s youth coming in and going out.”

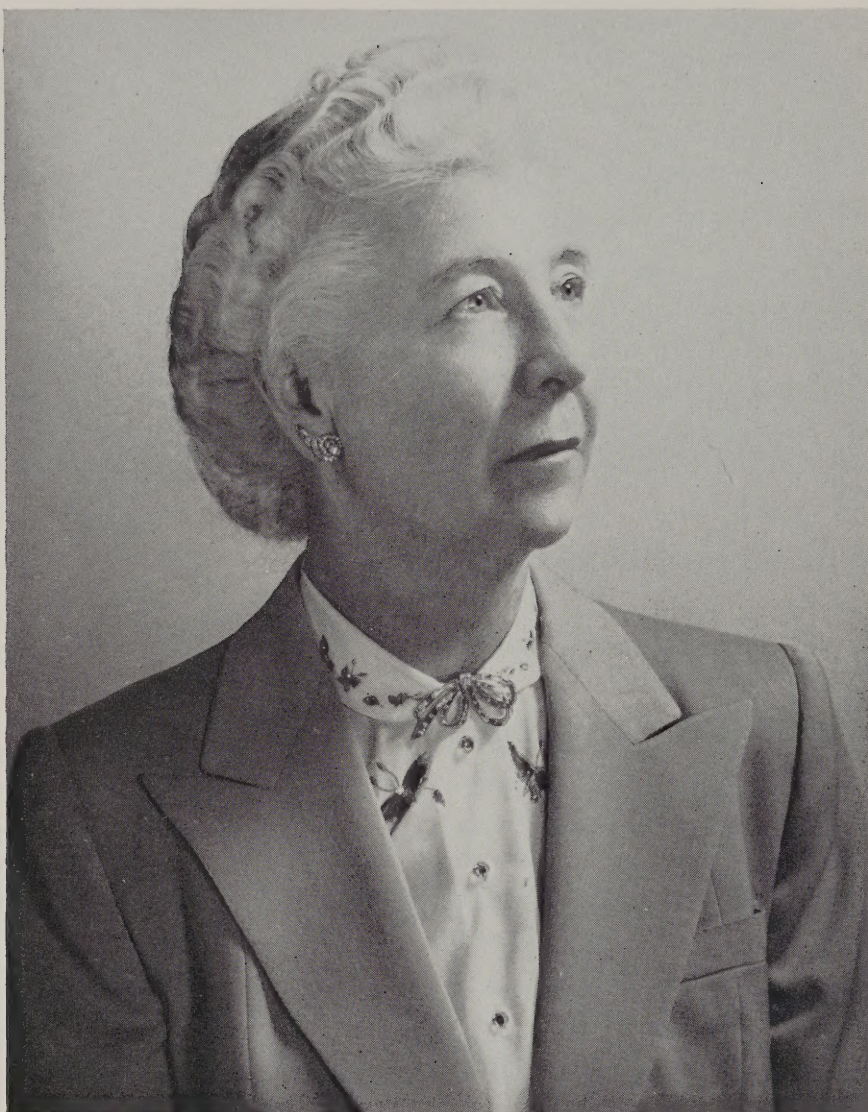

On these steps many classes have been photographed during the long history of Classical High School. In the photograph used as the frontispiece of the Blue and White for 1955 standing on the granite steps are two Classical principals, the president and secretary of the Alumni Association as well as members of the reunion committee. Preceding the Administration section are pictures of four alumni who have been successful in the field of school administration. The Student section is prefaced by pictures of four students who are currently enrolled as students in college. Many Classical High School graduates have achieved success in the field of publications and journalism. An alumna who is a well known author and two alumni who are successful journalists introduce the Publications section.

It was difficult to make a selection for the Activities section because Classical alumni have distinguished themselves in so many fields. Since pictures of only four alumni could be used on the division pages, a famous singer, a member of the House of Representatives, an artist, and a cancer specialist were chosen. Two women, one of them a recent graduate, who have attracted attention in the field of physical education for women open the Girls’ Sports section, reminiscent of the sports they loved so well while they were here at Classical. A football official and a college basketball player represent the alumni on the Boys’ Sports division pages.

Included also in this edition of the yearbook is a list of the awards, honors, and prizes received by members of the graduating class of 1954 which came too late last year to appear in that edition of the Blue and White. There is, too, a complete survey of the accomplishments of the 1954 alumni since their graduation last June. The achievements of this, as of every other class, should serve as examples to the present graduating class, and inspire it to leave behind a record of attainments worthy of Classical High School.

Irene Horrigan

Miss Horrigan, one of the best history teachers at Classical High School, is the adviser of the Blue and White advertising staff. For eight years the advertising staff under her direction has obtained advertisements to assist in paying for the publication of the yearbook. In the course of her advisership, Miss Horrigan has had to give up much of her unassigned time. Her help has been very valuable to the adviser and staff of the Blue and White, and they as well as Classical High School are greatly indebted to Miss Horrigan for her unselfish devotion, and wish her all the joys that go with retirement after a job well done.

When school opened in September 1954, a familiar person was not with us. Miss Lewis, homeroom teacher for the Girls' Patrol and teacher of languages, retired at the end of last year. Although she was "petite," she could hardly be overlooked. She was admired and respected for her quiet manner which never left her whether she was teaching a class, advising Girls' Patrol, or merely walking through the hall. Although Miss Lewis has been missed this year at Classical, especially among the Girls' Patrol who knew her so well and for whom she did so much, the faculty and students sincerely hope she enjoys her retirement and will be able to do all she has always wanted to do.

Elizabeth Lewis

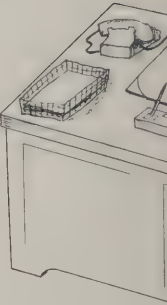

Dedication

To Miss Horrigan and Miss Lewis the Blue and White for 1955 is gratefully and affectionately dedicated.

ADMINIS

HENRY M. WRISTON, who graduated from Central High School in 1907, is now President of Brown University.

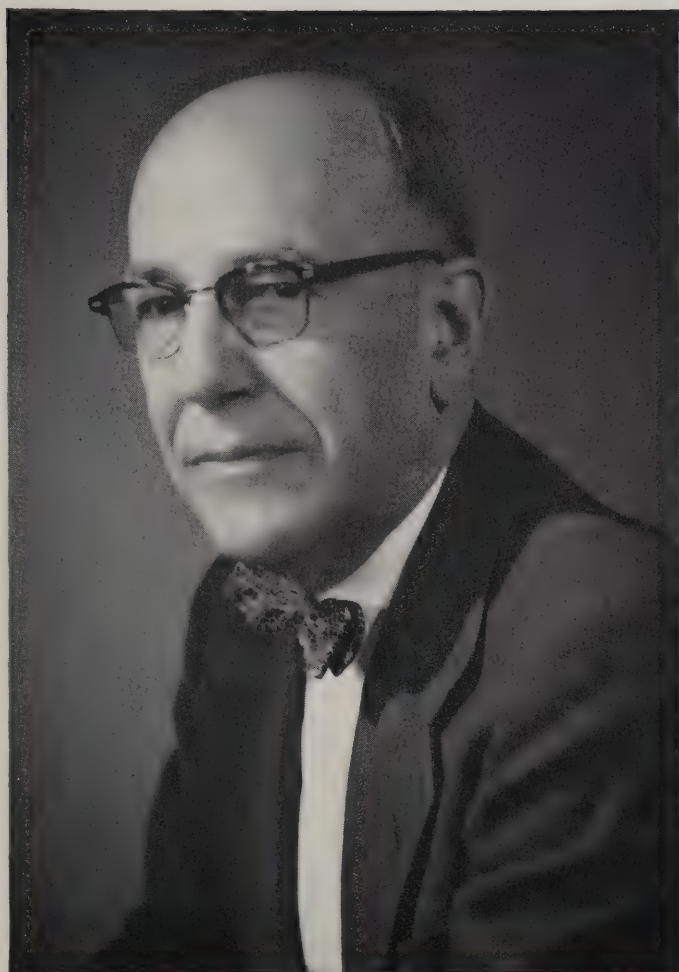

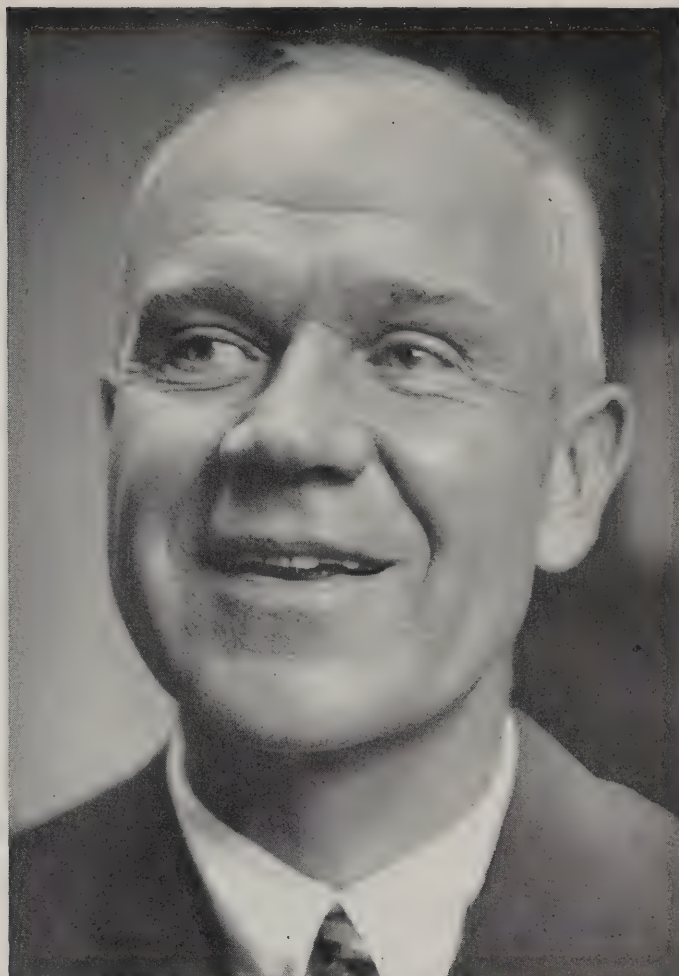

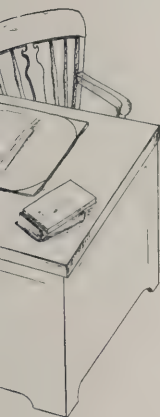

CHARLES HILL, who has served as head of the English Department and Acting Dean of Smith College, graduated from Central High School in the class of 1920 $\frac{1}{2}$. He has recently been appointed assistant to the president of Smith College.

TRATION

CRANE BRINTON, who graduated from Central High School in 1915, is a member of the administrative staff of Harvard University.

DR. FREDERICK S. HOPKINS, after graduating from Central High School in 1911, received his A.B. from Harvard in 1915, and his M.D., Magna Cum Laude, from Harvard Medical School in 1918. He has been director of the Cancer section of the Westfield Sanatorium since 1942.

Dr. Clarence I. Chatto

Every Classical student regards Dr. Chatto with a peculiar mixture of warm affection for his good humour and kindly wit and deep respect for his innate dignity and subtle wisdom.

CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL

The old New England builders builded well.
They set the foundations of the school deep in the earth,
And made its walls strong with solid masonry
To endure the wasting of the years.
They placed great blocks of granite for steps to the wide entrance
And for more than half a century they have known
The eager feet of youth
Pouring into school to get what the school could give them
And hasting out again to give it back to the world,
Some thirtyfold, some sixty, some a hundred.
Judges, doctors, teachers, churchmen, leaders in all the professions,
And thousands upon thousands of men and women
Of every walk and name,
The kind of people America is built upon.

Even the stubborn granite of the steps
Has yielded a little to the long parade —
Polished smooth, hollowed a little here and there,
And still the long, long march goes on,
Today's youth coming in and going out.
Watch them as they pass
And see in them the future.
Call the roll again:
Judges, doctors, teachers, and the rest;
Maybe a president — who knows?
They are all there if we could recognize them.
One thing we know
Tomorrow America will be theirs.

Doctor Rodeheaver

Dr. Joseph Rodeheaver

Thirteen years ago, Doctor Joseph N. Rodeheaver became a member of the Brookline High School faculty. During the war, he was granted a four years' leave of absence to serve in the United States Navy. In September, 1954, he replaced Mr. Russell Williams as assistant principal of Classical High School. He performs his administrative duties with a composure and good humor which belie the weight of his many responsibilities. His duties force him not only to work long hours in his office, but to spend much time hastening through the halls and corridors.

His omnipresence is a source of amazement to everyone, and a cause for consternation on the part of students absent without permission.

Although born a Middle Westerner, Dr. Rodeheaver admits his preference for New England where he can enjoy swimming and golfing, his favorite sports.

GUIDANCE COUNSELORS

Before a student has been at Classical very long, he learns that the shortest distance between a problem and its solution passes through the office of the guidance counselors. Mrs. Bemis and Mr. Finn are always ready to help any student with scholastic, social, or financial problems. They aid him in arranging program schedules suitable to his individual needs; prepare scholarship bulletins, and supply information about college requirements and College Board tests; arrange informal meetings with the representatives of various universities; and, because of their knowledge of each student's background, interpret the results of special aptitude tests given every year to juniors. Mrs. Bemis also assists students in obtaining summer employment and part-time work.

Mr. Finn advises Peter Haraty on his college choice.

MISS ELIZABETH STONE

Miss Elizabeth Stone allocates supplies, files the scholastic records of all students, and assists Dr. Chatto in filling out employment applications and preparing college transcripts.

Mrs. Mary Sheehan and Mrs. Barbara Wright, the two secretaries in 107, perform the multifarious duties which the administration of such an institution as Classical High School imposes on the office staff.

Office Aids assist the guidance counselors and members of the office staff by delivering messages and performing routine office work. FIRST ROW: Harlene Schwartz, Barbara Aronson, Sora Kirsner, Patricia Biscotti. SECOND ROW: Paula Nadlar, Barbara Frank, Louise Kennison.

Working under the direction of the Springfield Health Department, Dr. Nathaniel Bennett and Mrs. Anna Coleman (below) protect the health of Classical students. The Doctor's manifold duties include the examination of all students under his care, re-examination of pupils for whom any remedial treatment has been advised, a visit to the school twice a week, examination of anyone detained by the nurse on suspicion of any communicable disease, or anyone absent for two days or more, inspection of the school for sanitation and ventilation, and the writing of a weekly report, submitted to the Health Commissioner. Both Dr. Bennett and Mrs. Coleman willingly advise any student on problems of health and hygiene.

Mrs. Wright, (above) the quiet and efficient secretary in the main office, helps a pair of students with their problems. Mrs. Wright, Mary Sue Williamson, Douglas Filley.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

When Classical students first begin the study of the English language, some become bored and disinterested because of the intricacies of English grammar. But after a student has acquired the elementary foundation of English grammar, the study of the language opens up to him a world of wonder and delight through his clearer understanding of English literature. Without an adequate English vocabulary, communication so vital in our complex life would be greatly hindered. If we lacked the ability to converse intelligently, the social world would be dull and tedious.

In order to provide entertainment and education for the modern generation, Classical High School requires each student to take English for three years. So that no one will be disappointed, several choices are offered from which he may choose the one best suited for his needs and tastes. This selection includes literature, composition, and courses in journalism and special English.

Our competent English staff is made up of seven teachers: Mr. Edwin E. Smith, chairman, Miss Teresa Boylan, Mr. Donald Campbell, Miss Ruth Dickerman, Mr. Euclide Lague, Dr. James McGuire, Dr. Aileen O'Grady and Miss Christine Sauer.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

Most Classical High School students are planning to apply to some college for further education. In order to enter most colleges a student must have taken the requisite subjects. Among the most important subjects required are at least two years of a foreign language. Classical offers students several languages: Latin, an excellent basis for any language, French, Spanish, and German.

Our foreign languages are taught by Miss Isabelle Kagwin, head of the modern languages, Miss Ruth Shaffer, head of the Latin department, Miss Mildred G. Auger, Miss Elizabeth A. Dean, Mr. Edwin Smith, Mrs. Florence Smith, Mrs. Erika Corbin, Mr. Euclide Lague and Miss Dorothy Parkman.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT

It is very probable that after leaving school many students will choose occupations which will compel them to travel into various parts of the world. Moreover, many may travel for the pleasure, alone. Therefore, knowledge of history is quite essential to most everyone. A clear understanding of politics would be quite impossible if one did not know about the United States and the other countries of the world.

Through the fine social studies' courses offered at Classical, students learn a great many interesting facts about our immense universe. Our high school provides for education in American History, Modern European History, World History, Ancient History, and Problems of Democracy.

Our history teachers are Mr. David H. Brown, chairman, Mr. Milton Corbin, Miss Irene Horrigan and Mr. Donald Campbell.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Every day, each one uses mathematics in one way or another. The housewife may only use it in a recipe or a dress pattern, while some man's living may depend wholly upon his knowledge of this subject. The student, from kindergarten through college, uses it in many of his subjects. And as he grows older, he will use it in his every day life more than he does now. Therefore, it is necessary that he acquire as much knowledge of mathematics as he possibly can.

Here at Classical students are given the opportunity to learn new methods of applying the basic mathematical material acquired in the elementary grades to much more difficult problems. Along with geometry, algebra, solid geometry and trigonometry, which are excellent college preparatory subjects, Classical offers, for those interested, courses in general mathematics.

The teachers of the mathematics staff are Mr. Leland Smith, chairman, Mrs. Helen Flanagan, Miss Margaret Kelley, Miss Edna Marston and Miss Dorothy Parkman.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Several excellent courses have been offered this year by the Science Department. These courses are biology, chemistry, physiology, physics, and advanced physics. There have also been after-school review classes offered to the students who are taking college boards in science.

These courses, especially physics and chemistry, are very important in this atomic age. Biology, the study of living things, is usually the first course in science taken by the Classical student. Biology is important, not only for its knowledge of living things, but also as the basis for botany, zoology, hygiene, and physiology. Chemistry, the study of matter and its various reactions, is of great value to the students who are planning to enter several professions, such as pharmacy, nursing, and engineering. Physiology is a very helpful course for girls who are planning to become nurses. Physics, a subject of great practical value, consists of the study of heat, light, sound, electricity, pressure, and motion. The advanced physics course is helpful to students who are interested in learning more about physics than is offered in the one year course. This course is of value to students planning to major in science in college.

This year several students, who are interested in science, are working on projects, under the sponsorship of the Science Club. These projects will be exhibited in March at the Science Fair.

Our fine science department is staffed by Mr. H. Howard Lynch, the department head, Miss Emma Battis, Miss Eileen Fitzgerald, and Mr. Aleph E. C. Oliver.

TYPING DEPARTMENT

Here at Classical, the typing classes, taught by Miss Dorothy Porter, stress manuscript typing. Once a student has acquired the skill of this kind of typing, he will find it very helpful in writing English compositions and themes. After having taken this course, he will find that his typewritten work is much more satisfactory than any of his handwriting, mainly because it will be more legible. Without a doubt, typing is a very essential elective.

ART DEPARTMENT

The art department under the direction of Miss Doris MacKenzie has engaged in a wide variety of art projects. Posters have been made for the Carousel, Pirates of Penzance, and other school activities. Scenery was built and painted for the Carousel. Paintings and photographs have been exhibited at the City Library and the Museum of Fine Arts.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Under the capable direction of Mr. Warren Amerman, music has become an integral part of school life at Classical High School. Twice each year, at Christmas and in the spring, the music department gives a public performance. The Madrigal singers perform many times during the year for local groups. This year the Madrigal singers have made television appearances.

DRIVERS' EDUCATION

Among the subjects offered at Classical High School is the excellent drivers' education course. In their junior year, students may choose pre-drivers' education, which is taught by Mrs. Andrewes and Mr. Batt. This course is a preparation for "behind-the-wheel" experience. Then, as seniors, those who have fortunately passed the pre-drivers' course have the opportunity to actually get behind the wheel of an automobile, supplied this year through the courtesy of Mr. Gerald J. Palmer of the Reopell Co., and be competently instructed by Mr. Donald Vaughn.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The development of the physical self is as important as the education of the mind. Classical offers a well-rounded program of physical education in which each student is certain to find an activity to excite his interest. This program is constructed to give the participant the opportunity to develop his body through supervised exercise and to learn the codes of sportsmanship.

This association and competition with others is an excellent preparation for the problems which the student is likely to meet in the future. At Classical, both the boys and girls receive outstanding instruction in physical education, from which they learn skills, develop toleration and sportsmanship, and derive pleasures they might otherwise never experience.

SENIOR MESSAGE

As graduation approaches, the class of 1955 has an opportunity to look back over the past three years. When we entered Classical in September, 1952, we were strangers, but soon we formed friendships. We began to grow both mentally and physically. We enjoyed our class activities, our banquets, and our dances. All these accomplishments we performed as a group, the Class of '55.

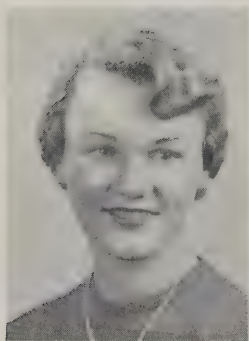

In the future too, although we shall no doubt separate, we shall remain united through the memory of these years at Classical. Perhaps, when we have class reunions in the distant future, some of us will meet and discuss these years in which we have had so much fun and so few responsibilities. Some of us in future years will have gained prominence and some of us will have led average lives, but all no doubt will carry with us happy memories of our years at Classical High School.

JANE CLIFTON

MEMBER-AT-LARGE

My association with the Class of 1955 has been most happy. The class officers and members of the committees with whom I have worked have been responsible, cooperative, and efficient. Although I do not know all of you in the class of 1955 as well as I have come to know your officers and certain committee members, I wish for all of you the best that life can bring. To get the best from life, each one of you must be as responsible, cooperative, and efficient as you have represented yourselves to be here at Classical High School. It is not living for ourselves alone that brings contentment. Rather it is what we share with others that really matters. I think many of you have found this to be so, or you would not have been so willing to do what you have done during these past three years. In the future may each one of you in the Class of 1955 find your niche, and may each one of you be happy in whatever career of service you choose.

HELEN FLANAGAN, Adviser

It is with real regret that I say goodbye to this class, for in a sense it is my class also. We all entered Classical at the same time, and our association began almost instantly when Dr. Chatto, always polite, informed me that you had "asked" that I be one of your advisers. I'm sure that at least ten of you knew me at the time. Our acquaintance ripened in those long second homeroom periods in the library when we poured over rings, banners, hats and, more recently, wills and prophecies. From you it was that I learned that something concrete could emerge from a group of people all talking at once. You must have all listened at once also. I used to retire to the Custodian's office for a restoring smoke and marvel at you.

If you have enjoyed yourself as much as I have and learned as much as I have, then you have been happy here also. I am sure you will all do well in the future. Goodby and good luck.

JAMES MCGUIRE, Adviser

Congratulations to all members of the Class of 1955. As one of your advisers, it has been heartwarming and reassuring to me to observe the manner in which so many of you have given unstintingly of your time and effort in the interest of your class and your school.

Soon, your position will change from that of students to alumni. Your paths will now vary according to the objectives that each of you has set for yourself. May each of you have the foresight to set goals that will be stimulating and challenging in order that you may continue to grow in mind. May each of you continue to find ways in which you can serve others in order that you may continue to grow in heart. May each of you continue to nurture the roots of your religious faith in order that you may continue to grow in spirit. Thus, may each of you, no matter what your ilk or call, continue to bring honor to yourself and Classical High School as you join the ranks of the Alumni. Godspeed!

CLASS HISTORY

As the reduplicated features of the Winged Hypnos stared passively above us, and the Roman arched entrance enveloped us, we realized, on that September morning in 1952, that we had become a part of Classical High School, and that Classical was soon to become a part of us. The demilune over the stage in the assembly hall would become as familiar as the faces of our classmates, most of whom masked their apprehension with an appearance of nonchalance or boredom. We spent that first day casting casual glances into every room we passed, hoping no one realized we were lost. In the lunchroom, we made embarrassed apologies for usurping an upper-classman's table and scuttled off to join "Our People". We were quickly assimilated, however, and our class was integrated into the school life.

Our first step towards organization of chaos was the election of class officers, who were Peter Carando, president; Jane Clifton, vice-president; Carol Wolf, secretary; Barbara Perry, treasurer; Vivian Haber, member-at-large. We also acquired class advisers, Mrs. Flanagan, Miss Porter, and Dr. McGuire, to guide us through our three years. On a certain day in October, we climbed aboard our buses and hurriedly secreted ourselves in the most inconspicuous place—this was Freshie Day. Staring over precariously balanced piles of books, we were led through the corridors by the imperious seniors, who proudly displayed us like trinkets on a charm bracelet. But when the rigors of initiation were over, we relaxed in the gymnasium at a G.A.A. sponsored dance. In December, we enjoyed the Christmas Concert and in May happily applauded the gay music of H. M. S. Pinafore. At the Carousel production of "Alpine Holiday," Barbara Dahl and Peter Carando played leading parts. Several of our classmates, like Dick Fisk, were showing prowess in sports.

With a year of experience and confidence behind us, we worked to better our accomplishments in every field. When the excitement of the campaign had cooled, we discovered only one change in our class officers; Lois Perronne was elected secretary. "Seventh Heaven," the junior prom, held at the Hotel Kimball on the seventh of May, was an outstanding success. Marcia Hamilton was chosen queen and presided over the dance with regal graciousness. In the Carousel presentation of "We're From Texas," we delighted in the western music and dances of our friends and classmates. Both school publications, the Recorder and the Blue and White, received high honors at the W. M. L. S. P. Convention at the University of Mass., and later, the 1954 edition of the Blue and White was awarded the Medalist prize, the highest honor in the Columbia University yearbook contest. Peter Carando, our class president, was chosen as representative to Boys' State. Classical seemed to be doing well in sports with players like Burley, Fisk, and Dolan.

Senior Year

When we entered the school that September morning, we no longer huddled together in protective masses; if we gathered at all, it was purely for the purpose of catching up on two months' worth of gossip. The faces were familiar, the routes well-known, and the pattern logical.

When the senior class elections were completed, and the ballots counted, our officers proved to be Michael Trencher, president; Jane Clifton, vice-president; Lois Perronne, secretary; Dare Paige, treasurer; and Vivian Haber, member-at-large. One of the first activities of the year was the G.A.A.'s Harvest Hop, a light and happy affair. The spectre of College Boards plunged many of us into the sanctuary of study, where we searched for a formula with which to exorcise the spirit. It was the time of endless applications and forms, and nerve-shattering interviews. But, remarkably, most of us survived this ordeal. Despite our pre-occupation with study, we engaged in more projects than ever. The Carousel show, Bermuda Bound, served as a short respite from our labors. Our hockey team drove through all opponents, remaining undefeated for the first round, and emerging as city champions. Our basketball team compiled a highly respectable score, and Heide Dolan was chosen for the All-City team.

Finally the day of graduation arrived, after several weeks of preparatory events, such as the senior prom, Class Day, the banquet, and other rites performed by graduating classes from time immemorial. We received the diploma with pride, for it symbolized the intellectual growth and the gain in human understanding without which the certificate becomes indeed a mere "scrap of paper."

CLASS OF 1956

The Class of '56 has once again completed another successful year at Classical High. Under the competent guidance of our advisers and class officers, the junior class excelled in all its activities. Early in the year, preparations were begun for our Junior Prom and under the able chairmanship of Gail Peters and overall cooperation from all committees concerned, the dance, "Stairway to the Stars," held on April 29, was a great success.

In extra-curricular activities, such as, "Carousel" and the "Pirates of Penzance," various members of the Junior Class took an active part with some of its students having leading roles.

Because of the enthusiasm of our class, we are all looking forward to an equally eventful senior year.

RECORDER

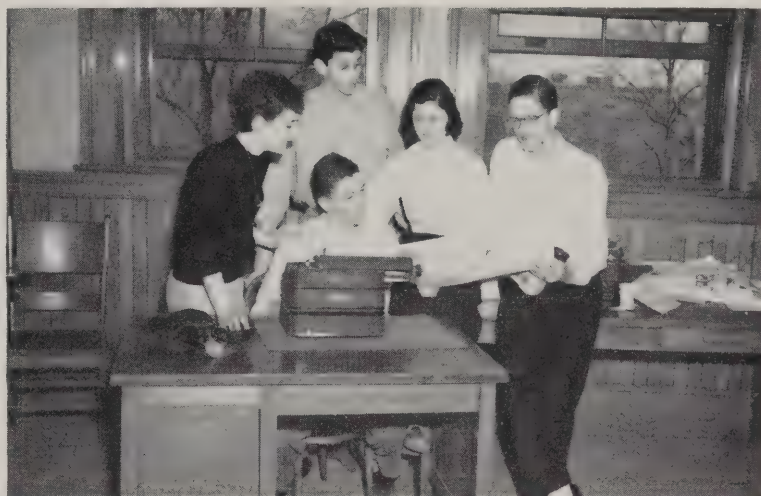

The tasks of meeting deadlines, rewriting stories, running to the printer and completing the newspaper make-up certainly seem less tedious and bothersome now than they did at the time when the staff was diligently trying to publish an issue of the Classical Recorder. Looking back over their careers as journalists, they see weeks of hard work, moments of futility, but a year of pleasure and self-satisfaction in the preparation and publication of the newspaper. No matter how greatly thwarted, they were by the inevitable setbacks of journalism, they continually attempted to offer to the students of Classical an enjoyable publication which also was a credit to the high standards of the former Classical Recorders.

They published, for the school, news stories about the "Carousel", "Pirates of Penzance," Student of the Month, school projects, elections, and club meetings. With intelligent and interesting editorials, they presented their views — both pro and con — about conditions of the school. Using humorous, serious, and intellectual material, their feature writers contributed to the success of the newspaper. The Sports' Page, written for both boys and girls, was made more zestful by accurate news coverage and interesting pictures. They joined the Western Massachusetts League of School Publications among other associations for high school newspapers.

Their sincere gratitude goes to Dr. James B. McGuire, who not only trained them in our year of journalism, but also painstakingly guided them through their ten issues of the Classical Recorder.

Let's do it this way. Editors Douglas Guyett and Peter Haraty.

BLUE AND WHITE HOME ROOM

This year, the Blue and White staff has been composed of ten juniors and ten seniors, who, under the guidance of Miss Boylan, the faculty adviser, write and co-ordinate the entire yearbook. From the conception of a theme to the final proof-reading, these students do all the necessary writing, art work, and layout.

Generally, each senior takes charge of one of the main divisions of the book, such as senior pictures, school organizations, boys' sports, clubs, and so on. As an assistant, he chooses one of the juniors, who thus becomes familiar with the procedure, and is able to assume the same duties next year. Every junior also has an added duty, for he is assigned a segment of the school population, and must compile and verify the information concerning every individual. Whatever his assignment is, he will learn what every senior member of the staff has learned: that most of the work is interesting, some of it exciting, and some of it wearisome, but never is any of it unprofitable.

There is the hectic frenzy of meeting a deadline, the troubled uncertainty as to whether he has used just the proper word, and the contented pride at seeing the finished work, newly arrived from the printer. Everyone will experience the exhilaration and irritation, the excitement, and exasperation which producing a year book engenders.

Quietly, courteously, and efficiently, the advertising staff, advised by Miss Horrigan, secures advertisements for the Blue and White. SEATED: Nan Zimmerman, Elaine Bresnahan, Lee Pieper, Ann Zimmerman. STANDING: Robert Romejko, Richard Prosl, Raymond Fugere, Stanley Zwirn, Leo Petit.

"Which picture do you prefer?"

"WHERE'S THAT COPY"

This is a question which is chanted daily in Home Room 122. The answer invariably is that either John Miller or Gertrude Lowell is in the typing room preparing it for the printer. These two worked without rest from the time that one section editor handed over the first manuscript early in September until some other editor rushed in with his last copy a day before (or perhaps after) the deadline. Surely all should be grateful for these excellent typists who have nothing to show for their efforts but broken fingernails and used carbon paper.

THE ORCHESTRA

This year the orchestra was a fine example of instrumental talent at Classical. Under the direction of Mr. Amerman, the orchestra pleased audiences at the winter and spring concerts and at numerous assemblies throughout the year. The orchestra was recently honored by an invitation to play at a meeting of the Massachusetts Music Educators. All members present agreed that the orchestra did an excellent job.

The performance of the orchestra at the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, The Pirates of Penzance, contributed greatly to the fine quality of the production.

As all who had the pleasure of hearing it play will agree, the orchestra has had another successful year.

THE BAND

Our Band, although short in instrumentation, made up in spirit for what it lacked in size. With its size increased by fifteen freshmen, the band furnished music to our teams and to foster school spirit at games and numerous pep rallies.

A recent addition to the band are the baton twirlers. Five talented girls formed a group of their own accord, made their own uniforms, and practiced with the band. They thrilled many audiences with their fine routine done to the music of the band.

THE MADRIGAL SINGERS

To become a Madrigal Singer is the ambition of every voice student at Classical. This small group of talented vocalists represents the finest voices in the music department of Classical High School. Chosen by Mr. Amerman from the various choral groups, each member must have a fine voice, and a well-rounded technical knowledge of music.

The Singers, under the direction of Mr. Amerman, have gained the respect and admiration of many lovers of fine music in the city, at school concerts, and at many out-of-school engagements. The Madrigal Singers were one of the three groups chosen to play at a meeting of the Massachusetts Music Educators.

THE MALE CHORUS

This group gives the freshman boys, who are not eligible for the A-Cappella Choir, and many upperclassmen the opportunity to get together and enjoy themselves with good music. The boys also have a chance to prepare for singing in larger groups in the following years. Although membership was open to all boys in the school without audition, Mr. Amerman obtained a fine group of male voices.

At the annual concerts, the boys pleased the audiences with their solo performances and joined with the other choral groups to present a large mixed chorus.

The male chorus is another demonstration of the many fine opportunities offered by the music department at Classical.

THE FRESHMAN GIRLS' CHORALE

Since the freshman girls are not eligible for the A-Cappella Choir or Madrigal Singers, the freshman girls' chorale gives them the opportunity to prepare for singing in the advanced groups in subsequent years. These freshman girls also are given the chance to take part in the annual concerts.

This Chorale was also asked to take part in the concert presented for the Massachusetts Music Educators, where their performance upheld the high musical standards of Classical High School.

music. At the Christmas and spring concerts, this group sings alone and also joins with other groups to form a large mixed chorus.

THE A-CAPPELLA CHOIR

The A-Cappella Choir, under the direction of Mr. Amerman, has had another successful year. This choir has helped make the annual concerts not only successful but more enjoyable. The Choir also performed equally well at numerous assemblies and meetings.

The A-Cappella Choir was honored this year by being asked to sing at the meeting of the Massachusetts Music Educators which was held in our auditorium.

THE 1955 OPERA TRIP

On April 1, 1955, a group of Classical students, comprised largely of juniors and seniors, traveled to the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York to see and hear a special production of Gounod's Faust.

We left from the front of the school at 7:45. Permission had not been granted to use the Merritt Parkway; so the bus took the Boston Post Road. The added length of this road plus the extremely heavy traffic in New York caused the bus to arrive at the opera after the curtain had risen for the second scene of the first act.

The students hastily made their way into the building, and crept down the dark aisle to their seats, which were located about five rows from the stage in the orchestra. Members of the group were particularly impressed by the beauty of the costumes and scenery. Impressive also was the view of the opera house itself which was revealed as the lights came on between acts. The opera house was packed with students from all over this part of the country, who listened attentively to the drama unfolding before them and applauded enthusiastically at the end of each act.

After the performance, which included Jean Fenn, Rosalind Elias, Nicola Moscona, Thomas Hayward, and Clifford Harvuot in its cast, the Classical students left the opera house for a few free hours in the city. Many of them followed Mr. and Mrs. Amerman, who were accompanying the group along with Mr. Batt, to a Japanese restaurant, while others saw some of the famous landmarks of the town and ate at Italian, French, and American restaurants.

At 7 P.M. the students met at the bus, in front of Radio City Music Hall, and departed for home. The bus finally pulled into Springfield at about one thirty the next morning. Everyone agreed that it had been a most enjoyable and profitable experience.

SENATE

The members of the Classical High School Senate do not claim to be such distinguished personages as their colleagues in Washington, but they talk just as much. An interest in vocal expression is the common property of our Senators (at Classical, that is), and while the speech which emits from Room 225 on alternate Wednesdays is not always brilliant, it is always plentiful. Each Senate meeting is devoted either to a formal debate or an informal discussion of some controversial subject. It is the policy of the Senate to tackle any subject which interests the members, and the more controversial, the better. In line with this policy, the topics discussed this year have included such hot potatoes as segregation in the schools and the recognition of Communist China.

The Senate meetings are conducted according to the rules of parliamentary procedure, with the president, or, in his absence, the vice-president, taking charge. The other officers are the secretary, who keeps the minutes of the meetings and the attendance records; and the member-at-large, who posts notices of meetings and whose duty it is to expel any Senators who conduct themselves in a manner prejudicial to good order and discipline.

In addition to its regular activities, the Senate each year sends delegates to the A.I.C. Model Congress and, at the end of the year, the four best debaters are pitted against each other in the Senate Tablet Debate, the winner of which has his name inscribed on a marble tablet, to be preserved for posterity.

The Senate is invaluablely aided by the counsel of Mr. Edwin Smith, the faculty adviser, who is assisted by the officers: President, Fritz Donovan; Vice-President, Peter Krokidas; Secretary, Steve Metz; and Member at-Large, Peter Fosdick.

What is a Pierides girl? She is a girl interested in expressing her opinions, hearing fine speakers, enjoying short stories, poetry and plays.

Just such a gathering of girls may be found assembling in Room 224 once a month, participating in meetings planned by the literary society's able adviser, Dr. Aileen O'Grady, and the officers: President, Sylvia Levinson; Vice-President, Susan Burack; Secretary-Treasurer, Judith Hirschhorn; and Program Chairman, Harriet Chernaik.

This year, because of the large number of girls eager to join the club, previous restrictions on grade and marks were removed, with a resulting increase in membership.

Every year Pierides members anticipate the Phillips Speaking Contest. While many try out for the contest, only a few are chosen to compete for the honor of being Pierides' prize speaker of the year. A literary event annually arousing much interest throughout the school is the Pierides-sponsored Poetry Contest which all Classical students are invited to enter.

Some of the year's outstanding meetings included a fascinating talk on Irish Ghost Stories, presented by Dr. James B. McGuire of the English department, and a spirited joint discussion with the Senate on Sororities and Fraternities versus clubs.

The practice in poise and self-expression experienced by the Pierides' girls during the monthly meetings will doubtless be invaluable to them as they go out to become the future leaders of America.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Government consists of twenty-six students who were elected by their individual classes. The group as a whole is divided into small committees. The officers are elected for half a year. This year, the officers for the first half of the year were Caroline Skinner, President; Wayne Lynch, Vice-President; Barbara Plugge, Secretary. For the last half of the year, Barbara Plugge was elected President; Robert Lieberman, Vice-President; Janet McIntosh, Secretary. S. G. adviser is Mr. H. H. Lynch.

Some of Student Government activities this year have been the publication of the Freshman Orientation Booklet, Sponsorship of Carousel, the sending of a tape recording to our French School, supervision of Freshman elections, sponsorship of the tag sale for the Hockey team, care of the school store, sponsorship of several assemblies, and decoration of the bulletin board in the front hall. These projects comprise an active program for the betterment of Classical.

STUDENT TREASURY

The Student Treasury is an organization which takes care of the financial problems of the student body. To be a member, each student pays four dollars, either as a whole or in installments at the beginning of each year. Not only does the S. T. ticket pay for the class dues and Recorder, but it enables the member to gain admission to most school activities, such as sports, dances, and musical events at a reduced rate. The Student Treasury money is divided among the school organizations and all profits are returned to the fund.

Out of the 767 students in the school, 689 are S. T. members. This means that 90% of the school has an S. T. membership ticket.

The advisers of the Student Treasury Organization are Miss Emma Battis and Mr. H. H. Lynch. Janet McIntosh is chairman.

Carousel

In September of 1954, the Carousel started off enthusiastically with the organization of a large committee which the newspapers termed the "Carousel Steering Committee." Under the leadership of Jane Clifton and Peter Carando, and with the supervision of Mr. Lynch and Mr. Campbell, this group had the committees for Carousel chosen by October. Unlike that of previous years, the 1955 Carousel was to be entirely student produced and student directed, with a minimum of adult supervision.

Once the title, "Bermuda Bound," was adopted, the script committee began work. As the weeks went by, the plot developed nicely. The job of selecting songs was assigned to another committee. In November, a small casting committee conducted tryouts, and at length, selected an excellent cast. Another small group, appointed for revisions, completed all unfinished business and drafted the final script. Inadequate printing facilities at Classical were overcome when Commerce High offered to mimeograph fifty copies of "Bermuda Bound." Several rehearsals were held in December, but no one buckled down to work seriously until January. The cast was large, and at first progress was slow and tempers were short.

In the art department, ideas were both plentiful and good, and clever and colorful sets were made to enrich the production. The basketball season and the virus competed with the Carousel for the attention of the members of the cast, and rehearsals proceeded slowly and steadily until the third week in January. Just when the cast was beginning to be really polished, Springfield was attacked by a wicked virus. "Bug X" took its toll of the cast. Only half of the members were able to attend rehearsals. Every day replacements had to be made for absentee actors. At dress rehearsal, eight people were missing, including several very important characters. Despite "Bug X", the cast was complete on January 27, the day of the first performance, and thanks to the wholehearted cooperation of the students involved, the show was an undisputed success. It ran for three nights. A special performance, the proceeds of which went to the March of Dimes, was presented on the following Friday.

GIRLS' PATROL

A few years after the Boys' Patrol was formed in 1924, the girls organized their own separate branch, the Girls' Patrol. This organization plays a vital part in the life of the school by helping to maintain order and promoting the school program.

A girl's duties include counter-signing passes and keeping order in the girl's room, helping to keep order in the lunchroom, and helping at the Information Desk in the front hall during home room periods. They also assist supervisors in giving special tests such as speech, eye, and ear tests. After school hours, the girls act as usherettes during music programs and P.T.S.A. meetings sponsored by the school.

A girl must be responsible, trustworthy, and honorable to become a member of Girls' Patrol. She must have a good scholastic record and be willing to perform the duties expected of her. Each girl on the patrol has been recommended by all her teachers and have been voted upon by the members.

The Girls' Patrol was especially sorry to lose Miss Lewis, who had been our adviser for many years, but we are glad to welcome Miss Shaffer as our new adviser.

THE BOYS' PATROL

Since the Boys' Patrol was formed in 1924, it has become a necessary part of the everyday life at Classical High School. This organization has many duties, some of which include being on duty between periods directing traffic on the stairs, being on duty in the junior and senior high boys' rooms, taking key duty outside Room 113 during classes, and making sure that the tables are cleared off in the lunchroom. The Boys' Patrol also does many special duties assigned by the office such as ushering at graduation exercises and P.T.S.A. meetings.

Two patrol boys, Fred Hallahan and Neal Herbert, operate the Audio-Visual-Aids equipment at the school assemblies.

The faculty adviser of the Boys' Patrol is Mr. Campbell, who graduated from Classical himself and fully knows the responsibility of the organization.

I. R. C. OFFICERS: Beverly Horner, Program Chairman; Jane Landon, Vice-President; Lee Pieper, President; Margaret Maybury, Secretary.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

"The purpose of this organization shall be to arouse an interest in the study of international relations, to promote knowledge of world affairs." I. R. C.'s objectives are clearly set forth in our Constitution. We follow up these objectives by having guest speakers, at our weekly meetings. Some of these speakers have been world travelers, foreign students, and distinguished members of our community. Italy, England, Japan, Turkey, Indo-China, France, and China have been some of the countries which have been discussed. These speakers often accompanied their lectures with colored slides, movies, or unusual souvenirs from the various countries. To further our interests in foreign affairs I. R. C.

sponsored another trip to the United Nations in New York City on October 22.

By means of dues and flower sales, I. R. C. was able to donate some money for the War Orphans' fund. This year for the first time, honor pins were given to juniors and seniors who have had good attendance and have participated in the activities of the club.

I. R. C. was founded in 1932 by Miss Harriet Marr, who gave an unusual impetus to the organization. Mr. Milton Corbin has done a great deal for the club by acting as its adviser. Because of an excellent set of officers and very fine cooperation from the club members, 1954-55 has been a fine year for I. R. C.

THE AMERICAN JUNIOR RED CROSS

The American Junior Red Cross of Classical High School began another successful year by enrolling the entire student body in its annual membership drive. Most of the money collected during the drive is used for packing small gift boxes. These boxes, which include such articles as soap, towels, pencils, combs, and tooth paste and brushes, are sent to foreign countries where these items are difficult to obtain. Other projects will be the decorations for Leed's Hospital and participation in the student talent show planned by the Red Cross Inter-School Council.

SCIENCE CLUB

The purpose of the Science Club has been "to provide for its members the opportunity, apparatus, and leadership necessary to further an increase in scientific interest and knowledge for the benefit of school, community, and individual."

The Science Club was organized in 1947 under the leadership of Mr. H. H. Lynch, who still acts as adviser. Officers are, President, Richard Prosl; Vice-President, George Couchiaftis; Secretary, Leslie Stoessl; and Member-at-Large, Merwin Burstein.

This year activities have included trips to local manufacturing establishments to enable us to observe classroom principles put to practical use. For the purpose of furthering the scientific hobbies of Classical students, the club also sponsored the Science Fair. The club encouraged many projects to advance the scientific interests of members. Some of the projects which have been completed include crystal and regenerative receivers, a transmitter, lie detectors, and experimentation in the use of transistors.

CHESSE CLUB

Organized last year, the Classical Chess Club has had an excellent season this school year. It has been successful in promoting the purpose of this organization: To augment our love and knowledge of the game of chess. To accomplish this goal, the club has provided fun and experience for its members.

The outstanding events of the year were meets with the chess team of the Mount Hermon School for Boys. In December, Classical visited Mount Hermon, and in January, the out-of-townners were our guests. We also had numerous chess tournaments with the Technical High School Chess Club, the only other Springfield High School having a club of this type.

To complete a full program, the club sponsored several chess tournaments in this school. In this way, many new members who had not known how to play the game were added to the club. Our officers for the 1954-1955 school season were Peter Fosdick, president, (who organized this club last year) and Robert Eldridge, secretary.

The aim of the P. T. S. A. this year, in raising funds, has been to build up a successful scholarship fund, and to provide an interesting activities program for parents, teachers, and students.

The Open House Night, on September 25, gave parents a chance to meet teachers and to learn of the aims and expected accomplishments in their courses. The panel discussion, on March 30, gave parents a look into many teen-age problems, and also provided entertainment for the students. Activities night in May gave ninth graders a chance to learn of Classical, and the P. T. S. A. college conferences in September helped parents and students in the question of which college to choose.

The Adele Addison concert, on October 26, was the biggest fund-raiser of the year, producing four scholarships for Classical students, and providing a very enjoyable night of entertainment. Another successful activity was the square dance, held on February 21, which raised money not only for the P. T. S. A., but also for the Recorder. This was one of the most successful dances ever given in the gym.

The P. T. S. A. Board meets approximately seven times during the year, not including meetings of individual groups. Because of the cooperation from parents, teachers, and students, the group has been successful in every activity they have sponsored this year.

What funny story is Mr. George Guyett, father of Douglas, telling Miss Irene Horrigan now?

THE ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB

The Arts and Crafts Club, the most recently organized club at Classical, is celebrating its second birthday this year. Organized as a faculty activity last year, the club under the advisership of Miss Doris R. MacKenzie, is now a student organization made up mostly of upper class art students.

Through the club, which meets every other Monday, members are able to create, using the essentials learned in art class, attractive items which, upon completion, will become the property of the maker. Created thus far are articles in ceramics and jewelry, together with prints made by the screen and linoleum block printing processes. With the assistance of money raised through their mistletoe sale, an event which the members hope to present annually, the club has purchased an enameling kiln, and has devoted much of its time to enameling on base metals.

To date the members include: Pat Biscotti; Catherine Finn; Karel Greenblatt; Linda Haapanen; Robert Holbrook; Esther Lear, acting as secretary in charge of supplies; Joanne Mayer; William Nolte; Judy Norman; Dick O'Brien; Bill Ouellette, appointed representative to the P.T.S.A. board; and Marilyn Teitler.

President Webb of the Bulldog Savings Bank joins high officials.

BULLDOG SAVINGS BANK

This year, as in previous years, many students at Classical are members of a Junior Achievement Company. The purposes of Junior Achievement are to teach the young men and women of today the principles of business and industry, and instill in them the qualities of leadership and responsibility that are required for the leaders of tomorrow. Every Junior Achievement Company is operated by young people under the advisorship of persons well versed in their respective fields.

The Bulldog Savings Bank, an excellent example of a Junior Achievement Company, was founded recently at Classical. So that the Bank could be formed, a special act of the legislature was passed last spring. The Bank is operated by eighteen students with advisory aid from the Springfield Institution for Savings, their sponsoring body. It has been extremely successful, opening 262 accounts and receiving over 6,300 dollars which has been invested in various types of securities. Open every Thursday from twelve until one, the Bank has not only earned money for the students through interest, but it has provided them with a convenient place for saving their money. Its main function, however, is to promote systematic savings among the student body. The officers, who were responsible in part for their astounding success were President, J. Everett Webb, Jr.; Vice-President, Karen L. Breed; Treasurer, Richard O'Brien; Clerk, Roberta Thal.

President Booth explains the value of a new account to Hedy Rothman as Dr. Chatto and Pat McGrain look on.

STAMP CLUB

The Stamp Club completed a very successful year under the leadership of a new set of officers. Meeting every two weeks in Room 112, the club held discussions, heard speakers, and traded stamps. At Christmas, the club made up packets of stamps for the disabled soldiers in Veterans' Hospitals. The club was quite a bit larger than that of last year due to the influx of a number of freshmen. The officers of the club have been Robert Eldridge, president; William Nolte, vice-president; and Robert Merhar, secretary-treasurer.

THE AUDITORIUM COMMITTEE AND STUDENT OPERATORS GROUP

The Auditorium Committee is a service group, whose members, all volunteers, have assumed the responsibility of performing all the tasks connected with the holding of an assembly in the auditorium. The members perform such duties as setting up of chairs and microphones, readying and regulating the sound system, providing and regulating illumination, and previewing and showing movies on occasion.

Another service that this group has been performing is that of projecting movies or slides in the classrooms. The members are selected on the basis of dependability and skill. Mr. Euclide Lague directs the activities of this group.

Miss JEAN POTTS is one of the youngest department heads at the Madeira School for Girls in Greenway, Virginia. Jean was appointed head of the physical education department only two years after her graduation from the University of North Carolina School for Women. Jean graduated from Classical High School in 1949.

Miss RUTH EVANS, graduated from Classical High School, became supervisor of physical education in the Springfield public schools, a position she held for many years, and is now director of physical education for women at Springfield College.

CHEERLEADERS

At the football games at Pynchon Park, the basketball games at the Field House, the soccer games at Forest Park, or the hockey games at the Coliseum, the friendly smile of a cheerleader and the famous words, "Come on kids, yell!", greeted the spectators. Pretty, spirited, and friendly are the Classical cheerleaders. Chosen for their skill in leading cheers and their personality, they have the responsibility for arousing school spirit and cheering Classical players on to victory. Even when defeat is certain, shouts of "Fight, Bulldogs!" can be heard, as the cheerleaders fight in spirit right through the final minutes. Proud owners of new uniforms, these girls can be equally proud of a job well done.

The two fine substitutes, Sue Penney and Mary Jo Miller, were always ready to take the place of an absentee.

Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende supervised this group which carried on Classical's established tradition of fine cheerleading.

STUDENT LEADERS

The Student Leaders are exactly what their name implies. A great help to Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende in the gym classes, they have the job of demonstrating various skills to their fellow students, along with teaching and assisting them. Senior girls are chosen each year for their qualities of scholarship, citizenship, leadership, and for their ability in physical education. The Student Leader Club enables girls to learn responsibility, to develop their personalities, and to improve their qualities as leaders. A friend to each girl in the gym class, the Student Leader is always ready and willing to help anyone in need.

G. A. A.

Composed of girls who take an active interest in sports, the Girls' Athletic Association is one of the largest clubs in the school. The Classigals are very interested in sports, and a large number of them take an active part in after school activities. For each activity a girl attends, she is given one point. After receiving ten points, she becomes a member of G. A. A. Thirty points earned in her freshman year entitle a girl to a "C". If she again earns thirty points in her junior year, she receives her class numerals. At the end of her senior year if a girl has earned thirty points in each of her three years and is not failing in any subject, she receives the honor pin, which is the highest award of the G. A. A.

The officers for this year are Stephanie Proctor, president; Gail Peters, vice-president; Susan Kuehn, treasurer; and Barbara Shaw, secretary. There are two representatives from each grade along with the officers that make up the G. A. A. council. Representing the twelfth grade are Connie Bradlyn and Ludmilla Donner; the eleventh grade, Sally Kinsman and Gail Robinson; and the tenth grade, Patty Paige and Jean Robinson.

After school sports, under the supervision of Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende, are sponsored by the G. A. A. Also sponsored is "Freshie Day" when the freshmen are initiated into Classical. On October 29 the Fifth Annual Harvest Hop completed "Freshie Day". The G. A. A. also sponsored the City-Wide Volleyball and Badminton Sports Day.

Each year more girls realize the excellent opportunities this club has to offer.

VOLLEYBALL

Each year one of the more popular sports proves to be volleyball. This year practice was held on Monday and Wednesday afternoons in the girls' gym under the direction of Mrs. Andrewes. The Classigals got together and formed teams, and the Intramural Round Robin Tournament, which was lots of fun as well as good competition, was run off.

SOFTBALL

The Classigals completed another successful softball season. In games with Tech and Commerce, Classical emerged as the victor both times, proving that "practice makes perfect". In practice sessions, which were held on Mondays and Wednesdays at the Armory, under the able supervision of Mrs. Andrewes, the Classigals developed the skills and techniques that proved very useful in their excellent team work.

APPARATUS

During the month of November on Monday and Wednesday afternoons, a large group of girls made their way at 2:45 to the girl's gym. They diligently practiced to improve their skills on the box, horse, buck, still rings, swinging rings, and stall bars. Each girl who participated in the apparatus feats was working toward the goal, that of representing her class at the interschool apparatus meet. This year the meet was won by the senior team, Camilla Carlson, Ludmilla Donner, Dare Paige, and Mary Sue Williamson. The practice sessions, under the supervision of both Miss Mende and Mrs. Andrewes, proved to be entertaining as well as useful for all participants.

ICE SKATING

Ice skating is one of the popular winter sports. This year the Classigals were given an opportunity to develop their old skills and learn new ones in lessons given by Mr. O'Flaherty of the Little Sun Valley Skating Club at the Eastern States Coliseum. After these well-attended sessions, the Classigals should be the best skaters on the ice.

TENNIS

This year a large group of Classigals attended Tennis on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at the Forest Park Courts under the direction of Mrs. Andrewes. These sessions provided lessons for beginners and a chance to practice for those who were more advanced. Semi-finalists in the annual tournament, which was not finished because of bad weather conditions, were Pat Knox, Marjorie Riner, Gail Robinson, and Ann Zimmerman. Everyone who attended had a wonderful time and is looking forward to next year's season, with hopes and dreams of becoming one of the star players.

FIELD HOCKEY

Practice sessions for Field Hockey on Monday and Wednesday afternoons at the Armory were well-attended. Under the guidance of Miss Mende, the Classicals practiced the team play which later on stood them in good stead in the annual Field Hockey Play Day. Losing only to MacDuffies, they ended up in second place by defeating Tech, Trade, Commerce, and the All-Star team. Classical should do equally well next year since many valuable players will be returning.

BASKETBALL

Basketball practice on Monday and Wednesday afternoons under the direction of Mrs. Andrewes and Miss Mende was very well attended since this sport is very popular among the Classigals. At the after school sessions the girls made up teams and gave them various names such as "The Penguins", "The Sharp Shooters", "The Grasshoppers", "The Snappy Six", etc. The champions of these after school games were the Penguins. To develop the skill of foul shooting, which is the Classigals' weakest point, the G. A. A. sponsored a foul shooting contest which was won by Anne Wood. At the inter-city play day, the two teams which represented Classical placed second and third, bringing back well-deserved honors.

under the supervision of Mrs. Andrewes. These practice sessions were a source of satisfaction for all those who attended as they learned new techniques and mastered old ones.

BASEBALL 1954

The 1954 Classical baseball team compiled a record of six wins and three losses, a considerable improvement over the four and seven record of 1953. The main reason for the better showing was the improved hurling of the bolstered Bulldog pitching staff. Led by two newcomers, senior Dave Klein, a transfer, and junior Don Atkins, out for baseball for the first time, the Classical pitchers were the difference between a mediocre season and a successful one.

The Blue and White nine began the season on the right foot as they beat arch-rival Tech, 7-5, in a hard fought contest. Following this auspicious start, the Bulldogs continued in their winning ways by dealing out decisive defeats to South Hadley and Commerce. The Blue and White ballplayers then ran into a slight snag, compiling their only losing streak of the season with losses to Cathedral, Trade, and Ludlow. However, the Classical nine quickly recovered from their slump and ended the season on a winning note by whipping Tech, Holyoke, and Agawam in the last three games on the schedule.

The Classical batsmen also did their share. George Burley was the leader, hitting a sensational .467, with such regulars as Carl Scheer and Bill Russell also hitting well. Thanks to excellent pitching backed up by capable hitting and steady fielding, 1954 was one of the brightest years in recent Classical baseball history.

Included among the 1955 returnees are the battery team of pitcher Don Atkins and catcher Jack Sheehan, but Coach Sid Burr will have to find replacements for such stars as Scheer, Klein, Russell, infielder Paul Snow, and outfielder Jack Norton. If this can be done, 1955 may find Classical baseball fortunes at a new high.

Under the leadership of Coach Donald Vaughn, the Bulldog golf team completed a successful 1954 season, with wins over such teams as Holyoke Catholic, Holyoke, Chicopee, Cathedral, Ludlow, and West Springfield. Captain Donald McGregor was once again the leading Classical linksman, consistently shooting in the 70's. McGregor was followed by Ted Sandquist, Tony Megliola, Dave Barry, and Sherwood Stone.

McGregor has graduated, but the rest of the team will be returning in 1955, with Sandquist probably replacing McGregor as top man. With a nearly all-veteran squad, the Bulldogs will be out to improve on their 1954 showing and give all teams a good fight for the Western Mass. crown.

Although the 1954 Classical track team failed to come out on top in any meet, the season was not altogether a total loss. The Bulldogs were lacking in quantity, but they were well supplied with quality, in the persons of such stars as Dick Fisk, Milton Douglass, and John Kominski. As a result, the Bulldogs, although they were able to take several first places, could not pile up points with seconds and thirds and thus failed to outscore their opponents. Perhaps the outstanding example of this lack of depth was the inter-city meet, where the Classical tracksters copped five firsts. These five victories, however, represented the total Bulldog take for the afternoon. From the inter-city meet, Classical went to the Western Massachusetts Invitational Track Meet at Westfield. There, Dick Fisk ran second only to the sensational Red Kowalczyk, and Dick succeeded in scoring six points for Classical.

Key men on last year's team were Fisk, Kominski, Douglass, Barry McAlpine, Bob Kuralt, Fritz Donovan, and Leroy Hershberger. Fisk, Kominski, Kuralt, Donovan, and Hershberger will be back this year to form the nucleus of what should be a greatly improved squad.

TENNIS 1954

The 1954 Classical High School tennis team, coached by Merwin Tober, completed its schedule by sweeping to an undefeated season. The team captured the Western Massachusetts title in addition to taking city championship for the fifth straight year. Competing in the Western New England Interscholastic tournament at Deerfield, the Classical netsters collected the most points of any high school entered.

1954 was a bright year for Classical football. After attaining an aggregate of one victory in the last two seasons, the Bulldog eleven compiled a creditable record of three wins and four losses in 1954, good enough for third place in the Western Massachusetts Class BB ratings. Possibly the key factor in this improved showing was an increase in depth. For the first time in three years, Coach Henry Batt had some good ball players with which to back up his first string. This depth was sorely needed, for among those put out of action by injuries were the two key men in the line, co-captain and tackle Jack Sheehan and center George Charkoudian. The loss of such stalwarts could have meant disaster, but Doug Guyett capably filled Sheehan's position, while jack-of-all-trades Al Sturr proved an able substitute for Charkoudian. The improved position of the team manifested itself in improved player spirit, which in turn led to unprecedented enthusiasm on the part of the student body.

Classical started the season off on the right foot when, after trailing Dalton at the half, 6-0, the Bulldogs came back with a brilliant second-half rally to capture the game by a score of 19-6. The Blue and White eleven continued its winning ways as it upset favored Trade 14-7 in the next game. The next week a powerful Turners Falls team used a tricky single wing attack to hand Classical its first defeat, 31-7, although the Bulldogs actually outplayed the visitors in the second half. Classical's overconfidence led to a stunning 21-6 upset by an aroused Holyoke Catholic team on the following week, and then the Bulldogs ran up against the power-house of Vermont High School football in a group of young giants from Brattleboro. Miserable weather made matters even worse, and Classical dropped a 40-0 decision. The experts all had Classical picked to lose to a rugged Worcester Commerce team, but a hard-fought struggle ended in a decisive 14-6 decision for the home forces. The last game of the season was an extremely close one which could have gone either way. It happened that the breaks were against Classical that day, and after three scoreless quarters Enfield eked out a 7-0 victory.

Unquestionably the outstanding star for Classical in 1954 was co-captain and half-back Dick Fisk, who drove opposing teams crazy with his brilliant running. Others who performed notably in the backfield were George Burley, Bob Kuralt, Bob Ansty, Jim Catron, and Sturr. The standouts in the line were John Kominski, Leroy Best, Wayne Jolly, Mike Kober, George Nassar, George Charkoudian, Al Sturr, and Doug Guyett.

One of the most heartening aspects of the 1954 football picture at Classical was the large number of promising freshmen who turned out for the team, assuring Coach Batt good material in the years to come. It would truly seem that happy days are here again for Classical football.

The 1954 Classical soccer team finished the season with a record of five wins, three losses, and four ties. The Bulldogs got off to a shaky start, losing three out of their first six games, while winning two and tying one. However, the second round results were much better — three wins, three scoreless ties, and no losses.

At the Western Massachusetts Tournament, Classical gave a good account of itself. In the semi-finals the squad edged Holyoke, 6-1; but in a thrilling final game, a strong Monson team eked out a 2-1 victory over the Blue and White.

In the course of the season, Classical booters scored a total of fifteen goals, while Heide Dolan, ever-alert Bulldog goalie, allowed only eleven markers to get by him. Outstanding on this year's team were seniors Dick Satell, Rod Fisk, Don Atkins, Pete Carando, and Dolan; juniors Bruce Rosenberg and Harvey Mazer; and freshmen Paul Beck and John Edgerly.

HOCKEY 1955

The 1955 Classical hockey team has outdone its previous record by winning the Western Massachusetts Championship. Classical started out by winning its first seven games. The Bulldogs then went into a mild slump, losing to Tech and to West Springfield, and tying Chicopee, before recovering with wins over Trade and Holyoke. Throughout the season the Blue and White rinkmen held first place continually, except for one week. There were numerous reasons for the dethroning of West Springfield; one of them was the additional practice time given to the city schools by the Springfield school board. A more important reason, however, was the abundant talent and spirit displayed by the Bulldogs. George Burley, once again the leading Western Massachusetts scorer, led the team on its jubilant jaunt to first place.

The unsurpassed Classical first line of Burley, Paul Beck, and Rod Fisk was ably assisted by three scrappy lads: Dick Pennell, Ted Sandquist, and John Whittier. Don Hall and Mike Kober were Rocks of Gibraltar on defense, while Dick Satell was superb as the goalie.

Although Classical bowed out of the state championship tournament at Boston, the sweeping success of Coach Pete Peterson's charges has made the 1954-55 hockey season one long to be remembered.

BASKETBALL 1954

On December 14, five Classical players walked off the basketball court, fresh from a 50-42 victory over a good Enfield aggregation. In this opening game, the lead changed several times, until finally Coach Don Vaughan's charges clinched the contest in the fourth quarter.

After dropping a loosely played game to Holyoke, the Bulldogs racked up five straight victories over Agawam, West Springfield, Holyoke Trade, Springfield Trade, and Monson Academy, before bowing to a powerful Tech quintet 59-47. The victory over Springfield Trade was the most noteworthy of these, as Classical was a decided underdog. However, the Beavers led only once, 12-10, at the end of the first quarter. At the start of the fourth quarter, Don Atkins went into the game, and promptly scored 13 points to lead Classical to a 57-36 win over the Beavers.

The 1954-55 starting team had Leo Best and Steve Kinsman as forwards, Heide Dolan at center, and George Blake and Leroy Best, playing back-court. Kinsman attained the nickname of "Little Thief" because of his talent for stealing the ball away from the opposition. Dolan and Blake, using their height to good advantage, did an excellent job of keeping both boards clear, while Leroy did an equally good job of bringing the ball into play and sparked Classical with his play making. Leo, freshman brother of Leroy, became a standout on the team, time and again thrilling fans with his corner shots.

If this year's team is an indication of things to come, the squad for 1955-56 should be excellent. Of the five starting players, only one, Dolan, will be lost through graduation.

SWIMMING 1955

Otto Wulff's aggregation of swimmers must qualify as the Classical athletic team hardest hit by the loss of stars through graduation. The Wulff-men began the new season without the services of such stalwarts as Marty Kaufman, Bob Severance, and Harlan Lang; nevertheless, in the course of a rugged seven-meet schedule, the Bulldogs came up with wins over Trade and the Williston J.V.'s. In the First Annual Metropolitan Swimming Meet, the Classical mermen splashed their way to third place, behind Tech and Holyoke.

Leading the 1955 swimmers were captain Joel Saks in the freestyle sprint, once-defeated Fred Mazer in the 200 yard freestyle, Leslie Stoessl in the breaststroke, Dave Sack in the backstroke, and Dick Young in the diving. Others who copped points for Classical were Gary Girard, Ashley Boone, and Steve Metz.

Backstrokers start splashingly.

BOWLING 1955

The 1955 Classical bowling team, competing in the tough inter-school league, compiled a record of four wins and six losses. Although the Bulldog bowlers finished fourth in the league, they ended the season with a decisive victory over Cathedral, the first round champs. In addition, Henry Batt's boys rolled up wins over Commerce and Ludlow, whipping the latter twice.

The leading Classical pin-dropper was Jon Prothero, followed by Leroy Hershberger, Neal Herbert, Robert Lieberman, William Jenkins, Allan White, and Harvey Shapiro.
